Reconnecting with what is Important

As we prepare to enter the Advent season with our eyes focused on the birth of the Christ Child, I can't help but reflect on how detached our nation has become from the detail of the Christian story that frames much of our festive activity. The cards we send, the carols we sing and the story we tell are all wrapped up in the disturbing reality of a homeless family, who make the difficult decision to become political refugees, driven out by a corrupt and tyrannical regime – sound familiar?

Closer to home, we are on the brink of a decision that will reframe the future of our nation. A decision that will in many ways redefine who we are and what we believe as a people. And like the Christmas story, this story has similarly been detached from the detail and reality of what it means to be made in the image of God and part of the wider human family.

Both stories focus on the expulsion of those who are seen to be disruptive influences, agitators or people who have the potential to cause increased political instability. Fear overtakes contentment, rejection overtakes welcome and before we know it, the stories that inform and define who we are and the communities we inhabit, become diminished by a self-absorbed approach to living, that places 'me' at the centre and everyone else on the margins.

Advent challenges this world view and way of living, inviting us, instead, to respond differently. The prophet Isaiah announces 'The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who lived in a land of deep darkness, on them light has shined.' The imagery of darkness and light is an important theme within the Advent story suggesting there is an alternative way of living – a way of living that draws us away from the murky realm of narcissism into the glorious freedom of the Kingdom of God.

Living differently is never easy. But the yearly experience of Advent places before us a fresh opportunity to think again about what is important, what we value and how we intend to live. Will we let the light of the Kingdom of God shine brightly from our lives and from our church or will we be consumed by the darkness and self-interest which increasingly dominates our fallen world.

Get Your Camera(phone) Ready!

As a way of raising funds for the continued work and upkeep of the Cathedral we are looking to produce a calendar for 2020 featuring the buildings, life and work of this amazing space.

The competition is open to any amateur photographer be they staff member, congregation member or visitor to the cathedral – see the categories below. You may submit more than one entry.

Having just won the Lancashire Tourism Cultural Venue of the Year we would like the calendar to reflect the many different aspects of the Cathedral – its architecture, its community and its place in the centre of both Blackburn and the Diocese now and through history. So here are some possible topics:

- The fabric and artefacts of the building.
- The Cathedral's surroundings.
- The work of staff and volunteers.
- The Cathedral through the seasons – both liturgical and natural.

If you have a particular wish to photograph a specific aspect of the Cathedral that requires special access, please write in the first instance to the contact details below. We will try to accommodate your request if at all possible.

Deadline: 31 October 2019 – submissions accepted from 1st December 2018 onwards and will be displayed from 1st January 2019.

Categories: 12 and under; 18 and under; over 18; photography student.

Please submit a printed copy of your photographs with your name, the category in which you wish to be judged and the date the photographs were taken on the back to the address below; prints should be no bigger than A5 in size.

A full list of competition rules will be posted at the back of the cathedral, in the shop and on the website.
